At Sea Again.

There can be no doubt that the amendments to the Dallas Clarendon treaty, made by the dominant party in the Senate, were just those calculated to do what has been done. Certain of the Senators, desirous of keeping up the disagreement between this country and Great Britain, for the purpose of accurring the continued cooperation of the Irish element in the schemes that they have yet to consumate, found an opening through which they could touch the Queen's miesters on the raw, without, at the same time, seeming to desire the aggravation of the existing difficulty. The treaty, as framed by Mr. Dallas, provided that the Bay Islands, though a province of Horduras, thould be independent, and a former treaty between England and Honduras, the provisions of which were re-affirmed by the bargain between Mr. Dallas and Lord Chansons, declared that Slavery should not exist in those islands. Without making that declared tion operative, the treaty could ust be radied;

Thus we are again at sea, though non-isally resting upon the Clayfon-Eulwer treaty, the construction of which is a idely different on opposite sides of the Affantic. We do not D opposite sides of the Affantle. We do not 12 much regret the failure of the attempted adjustment of a vexatious dispute, as we deprecate the opportunity which will be given the pre-Slavery party to continue their experiments upon the credulity of the trial, and to advance their service projects under guise of hostility to English aggression. Upon these roles to the Second Programme. poetailty to Engine aggression. Upon these points, the Ecosing Fort says:

Trouble with England has been found a very available foil to say inconvenient agitation awakened by the encroachments of the propaguida; it has been the red flag which the admiristration has been in the habit of herafiching in the face of the public to divert attention from its most offensive projects. Whenever, a foot. O'RINDS 05 THE CLARKHOM TREAT.

There is no alarm here, but some indignation at the rejection of the Senate semendments to the Dallas and O'Bernodon Treaty. The result was not certainly surpriving to Gen. Cass, though it was so to Lead Napler. Gen. Cass, though it was so to Lead Napler. Gen. Cass, that the Bay Islands question would be an obstacle to the acceptance of our amendments.

There is nothing in the story that the Treaty, as amended, is still under new members, its rejection is positive, though, its the Prenifer states, the correspondence respecting it between Mr. Dallas and Lord Clarendon has not come to hand.

The amendment which it.s Sante made to the treaty in regard to the Bay Islands, required that Honderas should have absolute accordingly over them, and they would defeat any purpose which the British Government might enterain of establishing a great saval depot at Russan. The treaty having failen to the ground, after a negotiation of six years, it would be useless to endeavor to resuscitate h. Our Government fails back on the Chylon-Eulwer treaty, and devices the right of the British Government under that treaty to occupy any part of Ceatral America, and particularly the Bay Islands which she seized upon, since the date of the treaty in 1850.

It is thought that Lord Palmerston, backed up as he has been by the late election, will be less anabitions than ever on this sabject.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 5, 1851.

I have good authority for saying that Lord Napier has received instructions from his Government to inform New Granada that her abrupt rejection of the American siting among with the most decided desapprobation of the British Granerosever.

Government.

The issue, raised by New Granada, of Irresponsibility for the massacre of the 15th of April—inasmuch, as she alleges, it was commenced, or at least incited, by un American citizen—is not recognized by England as a just and proper one; and the counter demands made around to remarks a made around our Government is redamages made against our Government is re-garded as simply ridiculous.

Neither England nor Frence will take part with New Grenada in the present controversy.

Both these Powers support the action of the United States Government in its endeavors to

John F. A. Sanford, an eminent mechant of this city, died on Tuesday, in In 51st year of his age. He commenced life as a trapper on the Missouri, rose to a partnership in the great St. Louis firm of Pietre Choutsung Jr. & Co., and rapidly accumulated a fortune amounting of the run shop? Can it be that, with the handable intention of ascertaining the precise number of the latter, he visited each in town before taking the ceasur, and consequently away only "should or half." This statistic, however, approximates nearer to truth than any other made by the gentleman, though Fulion City, at the present time, contains about 3,040 inhabitant; and three years ago numbered not quite as many hundred!

But, it is not our intention to enter into a benefity contradiction or correction of any of the faisehoods and misstatements with which that sricke at our day. A striking peculiarity at a Cincinnat fire, it that the power which propels the water is it wishlife, the engines being some distance of and the pipe holders never crowded or impede in their operations. Thus it is that no less than seven respectable rivalets are brought to been at one time upon a blute; and it smart be a terrible one and far gone, indeed, if it can stand up, under such a cataract. There is a tunnity, disorder, confusion, uppear, or ever excitement of any sort during this operation which is usually a brief one.

The expense of the steam engines, and the paid are brigade, is $81,000 per annum. New Advertisements.
